Dear Professor Soroko,

The Center for the Advancement of Teaching's Thank-a-Professor program gives students a chance to express their gratitude for the important and challenging work you do in the classroom.

A student from your MAC 2312 course in Fall 2021 wanted you to hear these words of appreciation:

"Dr. Soroko has a wonderful personality and makes a subject that most teachers make boring extremely interesting. It is easy to tell that he enjoys what he does which keeps me very engaged in the subject."

You have another letter from a student from your course MAC2312 from Fall 2021:

"For always being available when I need help and explaining things well."

Congratulations and thank you for your dedication, care, and expertise. Your work means so much to your students, the university, and the broader community; you make it possible to offer our students the exceptional education they deserve.

Sincerely,

Leslie Richardson, Ph. D.
